

Hosting a CCP Workshop in Your Community

In support of your efforts to create changes in your community, Center for Collaborative Planning (CCP) is available to provide local training for your group.

WHY CCP?

CCP Workshops are highly interactive, draw upon the experience of participants to maximize learning, and are based upon 8 years of fieldwork with collaboratives and emerging community leaders.

Trainings can accommodate groups of up to 65 people and are a great way to build the capacity of your community. Workshops cover a wide range of topics including:

- Asset Based Community Development in Practice
- The Gifted Facilitator
- Working Collaboratively: The Art of Collaboration
- Collaborative Leadership
- Collaborative Self-Assessment and Action Planning
- Participatory Strategic Planning
- The Right Question Project: A Parent Advocacy Technique

For detailed descriptions of workshops, please visit CCP's website

Benefits of Hosting a CCP Workshop

By hosting a training workshop, members of your community will have the opportunity to:

- Participate in training directly relevant to community improvement activities
- Increase the capacity of your group to plan and implement projects
- Hone skills in event/conference planning
- Build new relationships
- Offer training to a greater number of people
- Pool resources for greater cost effectiveness
- Attend workshops close to home

CCP Responsibilities

CCP staff will work with designated members of your group to assist with the process of coordinating the training logistics and content design including:

- Consulting on marketing, outreach and logistics coordination
- Developing workshop content
- Producing training materials
- Traveling to your community to deliver the workshop
- Collecting, summarizing and distributing evaluation results

Host Responsibilities

- Recruiting and registering participants
- Coordinating site logistics including food, and audio/visual equipment
- Communicating with CCP staff to tailor training content and arrange logistics
