

Ha N. Tank

Office Manager

Since joining the Center for Collaborative Planning (CCP) in 2006, Ha has supported the CCP mission with more than 20 years in providing excellent clerical, administrative, and consumer services in the public and private sector.

In her current role, she manages office procedures and operational needs as well as coordinates staff and vendor communication, contributing to CCP's organizational development activities including strategic planning and operations development. In addition, she manages the logistics planning for workshops and conferences, CCP meetings and events, and supports CCP's diverse portfolio of training, leadership development, and intermediary support projects. She also facilitates CCP staff meetings and co-facilitates one of CCP's projects in partnership with Sacramento County where adults and youth in the community meet monthly to advocate for the prevention of youth drug and alcohol use.
